

REGULAR SUNDAY SHIFT AT WORK

Neither Strike Nor Lookout
Seems Likely at Once in Rio Grande Shops.

AWAIT WORD FROM DENVER

CONFERENCE MAY RESULT IN AMICABLE ADJUSTMENT.

The threatened strike or lookout of the Denver & Rio Grande shop men did not materialize yesterday and the regular Sunday shift worked as usual. This, however, was about thirty men. The total force employed during the week is about 225.

The cause of the trouble between the company and the men is the fact that on Saturday the company ceased to recognize the old wage agreement in so far as it affects pay for overtime and substituted a new set of rules. Up to yesterday men working Sundays not time and a half, but this has been done away with and the men who were at work yesterday drew only the regular week-day scale for eight hours.

There is also trouble over the rule regulating overtime on week days. Heretofore the company paid for eight hours work and time and a half for all overtime. The day ended at 4:30 in the afternoon and overtime was counted from that hour.

Now, if any work is done between 4:30 o'clock and 6 o'clock the company pays only its regular hour schedule for it and time and a half is not paid until after the latter hour. The new rules also require the men to report at 8 o'clock in the morning when so ordered, although the regular day begins at 7:30 o'clock. For this additional hour and a half only regular schedule wages will be paid and not time and a half, as heretofore.

The real fight is on in Denver, where the various committees appointed by the unions to secure a modification to the new rules are working with the officials of the road. It does not seem likely that a strike will be called, if at all, for some days yet, or until the negotiations in Denver are called off. The local unions have heard nothing definite from that point and all the men will report for work this morning.

The boiler-makers held a meeting yesterday morning at Federation hall, but took no action aside from discussing the situation. The impression seems to prevail that there will be no strike.
